

.....

THE LOWDOWN ...

... Former Boca restaurateur Collette Alterman is being sued by her former fiancé for refusing to give back her engagement ring. When Alterman, who ran Gigi's and Moquila with ex-husband Karl Alterman, accepted the marriage proposal of local investment banker Geoffrey Marshall last year, it was punctuated with a 3-carat oval brilliant stone in the middle of two half-moon diamonds. Price: 100 G's. But when the two broke up this year, Marshall demanded the bling back. She hasn't returned it, and now he says it's theft. Says her attorney, Richard Perlini: "It's harassment." Says his, Jason Brodle: "No wedding, no ring." ... Page Two hears that former Scripps Florida big and PB Cultural Council kingpin Will Ray is headed back East after quitting his fund-raising job at The Parkinson's Institute in Sunnyvale, Calif. He signed on seven months ago. No word on his plans. ...

Got a news tip? Call Jose at (561) 820-4725 or e-mail jose\_lambiet@pbpost.com